What is Montessori Education at North Star Montessori Academy?

The Montessori method of education is a method of education developed by Dr. Maria Montessori. It is a child-centered educational approach where children are offered opportunities to reach their highest potential. Montessori believed that children's growth, development, and learning happens in waves, or planes of development. Throughout each plane students have different needs, sensitivities, strengths and needs to be independent learners. Our Montessori teachers prepare each classroom environment to support and appeal to students within each developmental plane.

Our mission is to cultivate blended learning and success by inspiring every child in a student-centered community.

Montessori programs have necessary components that allow children to be successful. These include, multiage groupings, uninterrupted blocks of time (work cycle), guided work choices, and organized and inviting work spaces full of Montessori learning materials.

- Each child is valued as a unique individual. Montessori education accommodates different learning styles and allows children to learn at their own pace. Students are able to advance through curriculum as they are ready.
- Students of all ages develop order, coordination, concentration, and independence. Our classroom design, structure of routines, materials, and individualized work plans allow students to self-regulate and become more responsible and respectful citizens.
- Students are part of a close, caring community. Our multi-age classrooms allow for students to develop relationships with older and younger students. Older students enjoy being mentors and role models, while younger children feel supported. Teachers consistently model respect, kindness, and peace.
- Montessori students enjoy freedom within limits. Working within parameters set by their teachers, students are active participants in deciding what their focus of learning will be. By allowing children more choice, it activates their natural curiosity to learn and grow.
- Students are supported in becoming active seekers of knowledge. Our prepared classroom environments allow students to have the freedom and the proper tools to seek out answers to their own questions.

Given the freedom and support to question, to think deeply, and to make connections, Montessori students become confident and motivated self-directed learners. Our students are able to think critically, work collaboratively, and act as respectful citizens in an ever changing world.
